MBA in Information Technology Management

With an MBA in Information Technology Management, you have a unique competitive advantage: knowledge of the latest technology and enhanced skills in the areas of leadership, finance, marketing, accounting and operations.

An MBA in Information Technology Management can help you get ahead in the rapidly changing technological business world. Southern New Hampshire University's online program gives you a strong foundation in business management, coupled with particular expertise in information technology, a valuable combination in today's highly technical business world.

Students will obtain the business knowledge inherent in a quality MBA program plus the knowledge and skills they need for careers in digital commerce, telecommunications for business and IT management. The MBA in Information Technology Management is a powerful credential for Information Technology leaders:

- Directors
- Project Managers
- Quality Assurance Managers
- Database Managers
- Network Directors
- Network Managers
- Systems Managers
- LAN Managers
- Desktop Support Managers
- Help Desk Managers
- Telecommunications Managers
- Datacommunications Managers
- Computer Operations Managers
- Software Development Managers
- NOC Team Leader

For those working in technical roles, an IT focused MBA can help you grow in your current role or accelerate a transition into management – where leadership and management of the bottom line are critical roles.
