Study Abroad and National Student Exchange Programs

Southern New Hampshire University
A Letter from Paul

Study abroad is more than just an experience – it’s the opportunity of a lifetime. It’s a chance to immerse yourself in an environment that will not only challenge and enrich your understanding of the world, but compel you to reconsider your place within it. Choosing to study abroad presents the unique opportunity to cultivate both a global perspective and a more profound and informed respect for ideas and cultures that differ from your own.

We live in an increasingly interconnected world, and an informed appreciation of cultural differences and diversity is important for success on the professional, intellectual, and even personal fronts. At a time when college graduates are expected to prepare for multiple career changes and shifts in workplace demand, study abroad enables students to develop the ability to adapt to fluctuations in circumstance and the resilience to pursue their goals even in the most unfamiliar environments.

I hope that you will all take advantage of this opportunity to personally witness just how complicated, rich, and wonderful our world can be.

Sincerely,

Paul LeBlanc, President
Experience Other Cultures

Discover new ideas and perspectives, both in and out of the classroom. Expand your horizons and visit some of the world’s most historic locations. Feed your curiosity, build your resume and enjoy invaluable learning experiences. We are thrilled to introduce you to SNHU’s study away program – reaching Africa, Asia, Europe, Oceania, North and South America.

We are proud to partner with outstanding universities across the globe to create unique study abroad opportunities for SNHU students. While each program offers something a little different, you can always count on an amazing series of benefits, including:

No change in tuition or housing costs. That’s right – when you study abroad, you won’t pay a dime more than if you were living here on campus. In fact, your housing could be a little less expensive, due to the contracts we’ve negotiated.

Airfare and health insurance. SNHU will pick up the tab for your roundtrip flight (up to $1,000), as well as the full cost of travel health insurance, so you can be worry free when studying abroad.

Findlen-LeBlanc Travel Scholarship Fund. Pell Grant-eligible students will automatically receive a Findlen-LeBlanc Travel Scholarship, which will help pay for study abroad expenses.

Opportunities for invaluable experiences. One of the greatest benefits of studying abroad is meeting people from other cultures and sharing ideas. Each study abroad program provides several structured opportunities to learn more about the culture, people and city in which you are studying.

Curriculum integration/experiential learning semester programs. SNHU offers additional programs for School of Business, School of Arts and Sciences and honors students. Information on specific programs can be found in the back of this brochure.

Credits and grades. Every credit and grade you earn overseas at one of our partner universities will apply directly towards your SNHU degree. However, it is important to plan this out with your academic advisor from the beginning.

Support before and after. From your very first year on campus, we’ll help prepare you for your trip with an articulated pre-departure experience. We’ll also provide a re-entry program after you return and seek your feedback so we can continue to improve our programs.

“Coming to SNHU was a safe decision for me. I live 45 minutes away, so I knew that I could go home whenever I needed to. When I decided to go abroad, I was really seeing how far outside of my comfort zone I could go. Going abroad not only opened my eyes to another culture, but also made me more independent, confident, and comfortable with trying new things. I miss my time abroad every day!"

Fall 2016

Your whole study abroad experience is part of a program that includes before, during and after stages. And you’ll have our full support every step of the way.

BEFORE
During the pre-departure experience and application period, we’ll share some fundamental cornerstones of our mission with you and your family and address any questions or concerns you may have. We’ll help you with budgeting and financial aid, applying to our partner university abroad, securing roundtrip flight tickets and obtaining international insurance. We’ll also provide you with information for completing a student visa. Before leaving, you and a family member will be required to participate in a pre-departure orientation.

DURING
Rest assured, you’ll be in excellent hands while abroad. Our direct foreign university partnerships have been handpicked by SNHU, and they help students who may be struggling to adapt to life overseas while presenting additional opportunities for cultural immersion. They offer service-learning projects, conversation exchanges, learning excursions and many more chances for you to get involved abroad.

AFTER
After your semester away, you will participate in a re-entry orientation with our Career and Professional Development Center. We’ll help you become a storyteller – conveying the personal and academic growth you experienced throughout your travels in your resume and job interviews.

What We Stand for as International Educators

In the age of globalization, we cannot build our future in tidy “boxes,” living in ever-smaller “comfort zones” where we feel safe and happy. Rather, we must venture out into the world and understand that while the international landscape poses challenges, building a truly global perspective is the first step toward solving them. Each new generation creates hope for a better future, where they will be able to be not just part of a system, but an active part, able to contribute, and with the resources available to make a real difference.

This begins with expanding horizons. We need to build connections across borders, and be aware of what is going on throughout the world. Study Abroad goes above and beyond just traveling, and you won’t find yourself attending the same classes taught in English overseas – the Study Abroad program at SNHU believes in creating a more transformative experience.

At SNHU, the entire abroad program is designed to expose our students to new cultures: we offer classes linked with local heritage, experiential learning, extracurricular activities, homestays, connective culture programs, and more. Why? Because only by having new experiences and engaging with different communities and cultures can students reflect more deeply on their own society, while rediscovering the values of justice and social responsibility. Engaging with different perspectives helps develop awareness and a critical approach to life.

Study Abroad may seem like a “drop in the sea,” but the experience can change lives. As International Educators, our continuing goal must be to build a better world. Through Study Abroad, we hope to help make this dream a reality.

Director, Study Abroad/Exchange Program
“Every day I get to speak Spanish as I live with a homestay family that cooks me three traditional Ecuadorian meals every day, with some of the best tasting and freshest food I have ever eaten in my life. I love how I get to speak another language all the time and practice while hearing and picking up new words.

Florence, Italy
FLORENCE UNIVERSITY OF THE ARTS

Have you ever wanted to study in the birthplace of the Renaissance? How about the city that some of our most celebrated artists and inventors called home? When you study abroad at the Florence University of the Arts (FUA), you’ll experience all of that and more.

FUA offers programs in wide-ranging disciplines including culinary arts, hospitality, international business, fashion and arts and sciences. Like SNHU, FUA emphasizes experiential learning through cultural integration projects that connect classroom learning with the city and community itself.

You’ll find world-renowned art exhibits, restaurants, shops and entertainment within walking distance of campus, ensuring that you get the full Florence experience. You can even participate in the FUA Connecting Culture Program, where you will be “adopted” by a Florentine family as part of the university’s “family club,” allowing you to fully immerse yourself in the culture of your temporary home.

Rome, Italy
AMERICAN UNIVERSITY OF ROME

The American University of Rome (AUR) sits neatly upon a scenic hilltop offering beautiful views of the historic “Eternal City.” Rome is more than a backdrop at AUR, and the university prides itself on using “Rome as its classroom,” offering experience-based learning and plenty of extracurricular activities designed to encourage students to explore the rich Italian and Roman culture.

One of the oldest and most respected degree-granting American universities in Italy, AUR offers courses in disciplines including business studies, communication, marketing, international relations and more. Working with AUR, you won’t have to decide between experiencing life abroad or continuing your program of study – there’s something for everyone here.

Programs Available: semester, year-long, summer

“I was never a very open and daring person but my time in Italy forced me to try any and everything. From traveling without any adults to living on my own, I was forced out of my comfort zone and it was the best thing to happen to me.”

PETER THE GREAT ST. PETERSBURG POLYTECHNIC UNIVERSITY

Discover the romantic spirit of Russia and its unique heritage at one of the most prestigious universities in Russia. Peter the Great St. Petersburg Polytechnic University is one of the world’s leading research facilities in the fields of applied physics and mathematics, industrial engineering, chemical engineering, aerospace engineering, and many other academic disciplines. Business, management and Russian language and culture courses are offered to learn more about this country’s heritage and background.

St. Petersburg is a mecca of cultural, historical and architectural landmarks. Founded by Tsar Peter I (Peter the Great) as Russia’s “window on Europe,” it bears the unofficial status of Russia’s cultural capital and most European city. The bridges and natural canals of the river have earned St. Petersburg the nickname “Venice of the North.” Gain a new perspective on Russia from a cosmopolitan, beautiful and safe city.

Cologne, Germany
COLOGNE BUSINESS SCHOOL

Business students will be hard-pressed to pass up the opportunity to study at Cologne Business School (CBS) in Cologne, Germany. CBS has decades of educational experience and offers innovative curriculum crafted to help you succeed in today’s demanding business world, including programs in international business, marketing, finance and economics.

CBS features a rewarding and enjoyable learning environment where students regularly launch new initiatives to help improve the campus atmosphere, as well as their own personal and business skills. And with the lively metropolis of Cologne at your fingertips, you’ll have ample opportunity to take in more than 2,000 years of history and engage with a local community of more than a million strong.

Programs Available: semester, year-long, summer

“I loved Cologne and the small school feel. CBS is a great school, especially to meet a wide variety of students from all over the world. Taking a class on the German financial system helped me learn how different the industry is in Europe; I’ve used this as talking points in interviews.”

Tyler McLaren, CBS Cologne, Spring 2017
Our students say:
“It is great to apply theories in practice, work in teams with so many nationalities, and be taught by friendly and well-prepared professors.”

Copenhagen, Denmark
COPENHAGEN BUSINESS ACADEMY

Copenhagen Business Academy (CPH), or Cphbusiness, is Denmark’s largest business academy. The school provides high-quality education programs within business, IT and innovation. CPH is located in the heart of Copenhagen, a historic, modern and safe European capital and a hub for European travel.

At CPH, you will experience a completely new way of learning, inspired by the needs of the business world. You will work in multicultural teams on cases inspired by the companies the university works with. The traditional, discipline-based timetable is replaced by modules focusing on business-related problems, which you will solve using tools from relevant disciplines. Lecturers are facilitators and challengers, helping you find your own solutions to problems rather than telling you how to solve them. These teaching methods help students discover their own strengths.

UEES Guayaquil
Fall 2014 and Spring 2015

“Life-changing experiences can be closer than you realize, and the study abroad program in Guayaquil, Ecuador proves that you don’t need to go all the way to Europe to gain valuable new perspectives.

Universidad de Especialidades Espíritu Santo (UEES) is ideal for motivated and open-minded students, as it provides full immersion in a different culture and language. Following a 6-day orientation, students will live with a local family in a homestay. Overnight field trips and seminars about the local culture will be woven into your academic experience, and you’ll have plenty of opportunity to interact with the local community.

Despite being the most immersive experience, the Guayaquil program is also SNHU’s least expensive – meaning you can have a transformative experience without breaking the bank.

Aside from intensive Spanish language instruction, travel and intercultural learning, UEES also offers service learning placement in the community and major disciplines that include business, communication, economics, finance and marketing.

UNIVERSIDAD VIÑA DEL MAR

The Universidad Viña del Mar (UVM) Academic Semester in English Program is the perfect fit for students who do not have a strong working knowledge of the Spanish language. The Chilean family homestay and volunteer program – with options including language teacher assistant, children’s home monitor and national park volunteer – allows students to enjoy an authentic Chilean experience, complete with daily learning excursions.

The UVM program is similar in price to the UEES program, allowing students to potentially save money – even while attending an excellent university abroad. Students can take courses in business, social sciences, humanities and environmental studies, in conjunction with Spanish instruction classes. Viña del Mar is located right on the Pacific Ocean, setting the backdrop for a fantastic experience.

During my time in Essex, England, I learned that even though we speak the same language, their cultural and everyday life is amazingly different than what I am accustomed to. There is so much more to the country than just the Queen and fish and chips. Similarly to the United States, depending on what region you are in, the environment that surrounds you can drastically change.

I was able to enjoy the small, old, historic town of Essex, to then visit London and experience the buzz of a modern, vibrant city.

UNIVERSITY OF LIMERICK

Who hasn’t dreamed of spending some time on the Emerald Isle? The University of Limerick (UL) is a popular destination for international students, with over 13% of its 11,600 students hailing from other countries. The university is well respected, with its graduates boasting an employment rate 22% higher than the national average.

UL offers over 70 undergraduate programs in fields ranging from social sciences to education and health services and is an active participant when it comes to promoting study abroad programs internationally. Of course, this may have something to do with the fact that UL was voted as having the best overall living experience in Ireland (and fifth in the world). Just 3 miles from Limerick and 15 from the airport, students studying at UL can experience the best that Ireland has to offer.

FIRST SEMESTER, FRESHMAN YEAR AT UNIVERSITY OF LIMERICK

Open, curious and adventurous students will be thrilled to discover that SNHU now offers a study abroad opportunity beginning in their very first semester of college. If you’re the sort of person who leaps headfirst into new opportunities, SNHU’s freshman year program through Ireland’s prestigious University of Limerick (UL) may be just what you’re looking for.

Ireland is a safe, English speaking country, where you will find experienced and knowledgeable faculty and an international academic environment with plenty of opportunities to interact with local Irish students. You will even find that accommodations on the UL campus are more affordable than those at SNHU. SNHU will provide you with additional assistance both before leaving and after arriving in Ireland. What are you waiting for?

Programs Available: fall semester
Program Deadline: March 30

“Living in the small, friendly country of Ireland for almost 4 months introduced me to a newfound independence and a sense of adventure that I now miss every day. As a homebody, scared to death of homesickness and living abroad, UL was so accommodating. It’s a popular university for international students, so I was always meeting people from around the world and learning about new cultures that I forgot to miss home!”

Immerse yourself in the beauty and harmony of the Japanese millenary culture. Aichi Shukutoku University (ASU) adopts “living with diversity” as its philosophy for education. The pillar of ASU’s education is to nurture the abilities, knowledge and skills of students while deepening their understanding of each other – regardless of culture, nationality, religion, age, gender or disability.

The program at the Faculty of Global Communication is the perfect fit for SNHU students. At ASU, students can take a wide range of communication courses in English, along with a 2-week intensive Japanese language program. The Center for Japanese Language and Culture is another option, providing an opportunity to acquire comprehensive Japanese language skills and hands-on cultural experiences such as flower arrangement and calligraphy.

ASU has 2 campuses: Hoshigaoka, located in Nagoya, and Nagakute, located in neighboring Nagakute. Osaka and Tokyo are easily accessible.

Seinan Gakuin University (SGU) is one of the top comprehensive universities in Fukuoka, Japan. Fukuoka is the Japan’s sixth largest city with 1.5 million residents on Kyushu Island.

Established in 1973, SGU International Division offers 1- or 2-semester programs, running from August to the following May, through which students earn transferable credits. Most international students are exchange students who have entered into mutual exchange agreements with SGU. SGU currently accepts international students from 68 institutions in 21 countries throughout the world.

SGU is one of the few Japanese universities to offer courses concentrated on Japan, including Japanese language, culture, history, tradition, business and politics, with all courses (except Japanese language) taught in English. A 4-week intensive summer Japanese language program is also available in late June through July. The program accepts up to 40 students each year (at 4 different levels) to learn the Japanese language more effectively and intensively.

Programs Available: semester, year-long, summer

“While living in the city of Fukuoka I made lifelong friends and unforgettable memories. I learned more than I ever thought I would thanks to the wonderful professors. Fukuoka offers so much to do. The city feels futuristic yet they have many historic traditions. Not to mention it is just a few trains stops away from the scenic countryside. I miss the sense of exploration and freedom that came from living in Fukuoka.”

SHENYANG AGRICULTURAL UNIVERSITY
CHINA TODAY SUMMER PROGRAM

With more than a century of history, Shenyang Agricultural University is a leading university in Northeast China. Located in the vibrant and beautiful city of Shenyang in the Liaoning region – a place of cultural diversity and harmony in China – SYAU enrolls around 13,000 undergraduate students in 57 programs.

A nearly 2,300-year-old city, Shenyang is known as a birthplace of Chinese culture and world cultural heritage. It is also home to the imperial palace. Built in 1625, the Mukden Palace is one of only two fully remaining palace complexes in China.

Eligible students have the opportunity to attend a 2-week summer 2020 faculty-led China Today Program. This program was created to teach students about contemporary China and its effect on economic growth. Participants of this trip will have the opportunity to experience Chinese culture, including the hospitality and warmth of its people.

ChildVoice

Develop a deeper understanding of the impact war has on youth. Apply your valuable skills and knowledge where they are most needed. Accept the challenges of an adventure that’s not about you, but about putting your interests and passions to work for the benefit of others.

Travel to the Pearl of Africa and immerse yourself in the local Acholi and Arabic cultures. ChildVoice operates 2 therapeutic communities in northern Uganda for war-affected girls. Live in a traditional African hut and work alongside our staff and girls in a remote village setting.

Internships are available at ChildVoice’s program sites – the Lukome Center in Gulu District and the Imvepi Refugee Settlement in Arua District. To best accommodate your needs, your internship experience can be customized based on your length of availability, course of study and interests. There are numerous degrees of study that can be accommodated for, such as agriculture, business, counseling, early childhood education, engineering, English, environmental science, journalism, photography, occupational or physical therapy, pre-medical studies or nursing, psychology and videography.

Your interests and passions will be put to good use as you uplift and interact with the students and their children. Through total immersion in the culture and community, you’ll understand the challenges these girls face and the remarkable healing taking place in their lives. Once you return home, you’ll have a better understanding of how war affects vulnerable communities, especially adolescent girls and their children.

Experience ChildVoice, expand your worldview and become an advocate for change.

Study Away through National Student Exchange

Not ready for an international experience? Ever consider spending a semester or 2 on another campus around the United States? Try study away with NSE.

WHAT IS NSE?
National Student Exchange has 160+ partner colleges in the U.S., Canada, Guam, Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands. Study away through NSE allows you to access different courses, evaluate graduate school locations, explore career options, visit new places and experience diverse educational settings at other campuses around the country.

From popular cities such as New York, Miami, Quebec and San Francisco, to mountain destinations in Alaska, Colorado, Idaho, Montana and Utah, to the beaches of Florida, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands, there are campuses and programs for everyone.

You pay normal tuition to SNHU and room and board to the host institution. Financial aid will apply, if needed. Credits and grades completed while on exchange are transferred back to SNHU, keeping you on track for graduation. You work with your academic advisor to plan for study away with NSE.

Programs Available: semester, year-long

Program Deadlines:
- Fall semester/year-long: June 1
- Spring semester: Oct. 1
- Priority deadline for Fall 2020 and Spring 2021: Feb. 21, 2020

“Study Abroad provides honors students the opportunity to explore the cultural, political, economic, and social issues that impact the world and to develop the skills necessary to make a difference. The world is bigger than the neighborhood we live in and when we step outside our neighborhood we understand our place and purpose in society. I truly believe that we learn more about ourselves when we seek to learn about others and Study Abroad makes this possible.”

"I had the absolute time of my life last semester and would not trade my experiences for the world. Although it was a huge step out of my comfort zone, I feel I have grown so much and have learned so much about myself and the world! This whole experience has really inspired me to want to encourage other students to study abroad and I would love to be a resource to such students at SNHU."

Nicole Dunlevy, FUA Florence, Spring 2015

Several departments within the School of Business and the School of Arts and Sciences offer a unique global component as part of the major with no more of a financial obligation than a standard semester at SNHU. Students in communication, fashion merchandising and management, graphic design and media arts, hospitality, marketing or sport management degree programs can spend a customized semester at Florence University of the Arts in Italy.

The customized programs listed for Degree in Three (Di3) students can also be adjusted to 15 credits for traditional 4-year students who wish to enroll in the program.

These programs are a blend of cultural, general education and experiential learning components.

If you are a freshman in one of the listed majors, don’t delay. Contact the Study Abroad Office for more information.

SYRACUSE ACADEMY – SUMMER PROGRAM

Would you like to experience the authentic Italian lifestyle while enjoying beautiful Sicilian weather without breaking the bank?

Our affordable summer program at the Syracuse Academy will allow you to fully immerse yourself in traditional Italian culture while making the most of your study abroad experience, meeting local Italian students and speaking Italian.

Syracuse (Siracusa in Italian) is a stunning 2,700-year-old seaside city on the southeastern coast of Sicily. Students here enjoy the Mediterranean sunshine as they find their way through the labyrinth of narrow streets of the historical center, admiring the medieval castle that overlooks the natural harbor.

Sicily offers countless opportunities: students may go trekking on Mount Etna, relax on sun-kissed beaches or explore the nearby towns at leisure. And for those who wish to explore further, low-cost weekend flights to the main Italian peninsular cities are readily available.

If you are looking for a new, hands-on study abroad experience and the classic locations do not satisfy your personal quest for discovery, Syracuse and Sicily offer an ideal alternative. Study in Sicily, the cradle of the Mediterranean, and make your study abroad experience memorable and life changing.

Faculty-Led Programs

- Short, affordable study abroad programs (1-2 weeks) that run mainly during spring break or summer.
- Satisfy the overseas experiential learning component of many SNHU courses.
- Contact the Study Abroad Office to learn more about available program options including business, arts and sciences and engineering.

“The Florence, Italy faculty led program is more than a spring break trip. It is a transformative experience through which our students learn to boost their confidence, self-reliance and open-mindedness by overcoming the fear of an unknown culture.”
