A career you can count on.

SNHU Accounting faculty members have extensive professional experience and are invested in their students’ success. Their experience enables them to successfully mentor students during coursework and real-world learning opportunities. Classes are small, giving you direct access to faculty for questions, guidance, and support.

The accounting profession was ranked third in Best Business Jobs, according to the 2016 U.S. News & World Report. With a major in accounting, you have a range of career options: Public accountants perform audits, prepare taxes and provide consulting for businesses, nonprofits, and governments. Internal auditors develop, implement, and test internal controls, and look to find and eliminate financial errors, waste and fraud. Management accountants, Controllers & CFOs develop, record, and analyze financial information. Government accountants maintain financial records of government agencies and audit organizations and individuals whose activities fall under government regulation.

Organizations will continue to need knowledgeable accountants to prepare, analyze, and present accurate and timely financial information. Earning a degree in accounting can prepare you for a long and successful career in the profession.

"I gained hands-on tax preparation experience and enhanced my skills as an accounting tutor. SNHU has given me an edge in jump-starting my accounting career."

Mallory Coulombe '15
Bachelor of Science in Accounting

If you're good with numbers, like structure-based problems and are interested in auditing, tax or corporate accounting, choosing to major in Accounting at SNHU can position you for occupations that are in high demand.

Prepare for a career in public or private accounting as you work toward your CPA. Choose our four year program, or the Degree in Three program which enables you to complete your degree in six semesters. Both programs prepare you to transition to the three-semester graduate degree program, giving you the credit hours required for the CPA license. Participating in an internship and the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program gives you valuable real-life work experience.

Make your expertise count.

To learn more about the Accounting programs at SNHU, visit snhu.edu.

Degree in Three

- Participate in enriching out-of-classroom experiences that supplement coursework.
- Analyze a local business or community challenge and develop a team-based solution.
- Meet a few times monthly for faculty-led “huddle” discussions.
- Graduate in three years (six semesters) without taking weekend, summer, or evening courses.

Benefits include:

- Apply what you're learning in the classroom to solve real-world challenges.
- Enjoy the full college experience: extra-curricular activities, athletics, and more.
- Jumpstart earning a living or starting graduate studies.
- Save a full year in tuition and room and board (over $40,000).

Master of Science in Professional Accountancy (+1)

For accounting students planning on going on for their CPA, SNHU now offers a 1-year MS in Professional Accountancy. Degree in Three Accounting students are able to complete their Bachelor's & Master's degree in only four years.

- Meet the 150 credit hours now required by most states for certification.
- Complete CPA review courses and sit for 2 parts (FARS & Auditing) of the exam.
- Enjoy engaging, in-depth course work incorporating research, cases and practical experiences.
- Small class size, cohort model.
- Work-friendly, morning-only class times with one day off each week.
- Graduate in 3 semesters (Fall, Spring, Summer)

DEMONSTRATE your accounting skills in real-life work experiences.

EXPLORE accounting and its business applications.

GAIN an in-depth understanding of accounting principles and practices.